Delivering the IFAD8 agenda: Second phase of the reconfiguration of IFAD Senior Management (responsibilities and reporting arrangements)

Addendum

I. Introduction

1. This paper presents the second phase of the reconfiguration of IFAD that the President and Senior Management have approved to strengthen the Fund’s organizational structure. The second phase of the reconfiguration of Senior Management continues efforts initiated in December 2009 to adjust responsibilities and change reporting arrangements to make the Fund a more efficient, effective and agile organization. It will become effective on 1 January 2011.

2. To initiate the second phase of the reconfiguration as foreseen in the President’s Bulletin PB/2009/11, IFAD Management commissioned an External Review of IFAD’s Financial Operations, on the basis of which the new organizational structure of IFAD was finalized following a series of meetings, consultations and retreats with managers and staff. These consultations were led by the President with the assistance of external consultants.

3. The second phase of the reconfiguration does not entail a wholesale restructuring of the institution. It is budget neutral and does not involve a considerable increase in the staffing needs of IFAD. On the contrary, the reconfiguration is expected to result in efficiency improvements in the administrative costs of IFAD.

4. This reconfiguration is part of the ongoing change and reform agenda that the Fund initiated in 2006. It underlines a renewed engagement by Management in implementing commitments to the Fund’s Governing Bodies and sets the stage for deepening the reform agenda, particularly of the human resources management function, the financial management, and the strategic planning and knowledge management functions.

5. The paper is organized in six sections. Section II outlines the rationale and goals of the reconfiguration. Section III presents the reconfiguration of IFAD. Section IV discusses the new reporting arrangements, and Section V the corporate decision-making processes. Section VI presents the new organizational chart.

II. Rationale for and goals of the reconfiguration

6. As in the reconfiguration of the Fund in December 2009, the higher-level goals are to ensure that IFAD continues to be a results-based organization capable of achieving concrete results and stronger impact on the ground through the projects and programmes it finances. The second phase of the reconfiguration also aims to strengthen IFAD’s organizational capacity to continue to be an international advocate for smallholder producers in developing countries.

7. Paramount among its findings, the report of the External Review of IFAD’s Financial Operations identified the amalgamation of IFAD’s financial operations with its administrative functions as a weakness in IFAD’s management structure that prevents concerted focus and leadership on: (i) maximizing resource allocations and uses of funds; (ii) minimizing and mitigating risks; and (iii) taking advantage of opportunities.

8. In addition, IFAD’s expanding programme of work, growing country presence, and the increasing need for systematic leveraging and diversification of approaches to resource mobilization, compel the Fund to strengthen its capacities for mobilization of resources, loan and grant administration, budget management, and mitigation of financial risks.

9. In the light of the findings of the external review, the second phase of the reconfiguration focuses on the Finance and Administration Department (FAD), and includes establishing a Financial Operations Department, which will consolidate financial operations within one department, and a Corporate Services Department, comprising administrative functions of the Fund, with the overall twin purposes of:
   - Building a robust and professional financial operation complex; and
   - Streamlining IFAD’s corporate services.

10. The specific goals of the second phase of the reconfiguration are to:
   - Concentrate IFAD’s financial operations and instil more effective mitigation of risks and capture of opportunities, including intensifying the emphasis on efficiency;
   - Consolidate IFAD’s financial reporting to ensure timely provision of accurate financial information for Senior Management decisions;
   - Effectively use information technology and automation, ensuring that business processes and approval steps add value and assign accountability appropriately;
   - Maximize enterprise resource planning, including through system coordination and loans and grants management to support IFAD’s operations for the greater benefit of smallholders and agricultural development; and
   - Align administrative resources more precisely with the Fund’s operational needs and results, as defined under the Fund’s mandate and the IFAD8 replenishment commitments.

22. The Human Resources Division (HRD) will be relocated within the Corporate Services Department, with the Head, CSD, providing supervisory oversight to the Director, HRD.

23. An Ethics Office will be established to strengthen and promote a conducive work environment, free of harassment and intimidation, and one that fosters openness, trust and respect for diversity. The Ethics Office will be headed by an Ethics Officer, who will report to the Vice-President.

24. A Security Unit, led by a Chief, will report directly to the Head, Corporate Services Department. The composition of the OMC will be modified to include the new members of senior management. The EMC and OMC will continue to operate in an inclusive and transparent manner. The second phase of the reconfiguration will amplify their roles, with financial operations and corporate services represented separately. The Committees will continue to strengthen interdepartmental collaboration and cooperation and to streamline decision-making processes within the Fund.

27. The Operations Strategy and Policy Guidance Committee (OSC) will still be chaired by the President, and the quality assurance (QA) process and the Sanctions Committee by the Vice-President. The President chairs the Appointments Board, with the current designation of delegations as defined in PB/2010/07.
