Executive Board — 101st Session
Rome, 14-16 December 2010

Programme of events for the thirty-fourth session of the Governing Council

1. Rule 6 of the rules of procedure of the Governing Council provides that the President of IFAD shall prepare, with the approval of the Executive Board, a provisional agenda for each session of the Governing Council. Accordingly, the provisional agenda for the thirty-fourth session of the Governing Council, to be held 19-20 February 2011, was considered and approved at the 100th session of the Executive Board in September 2010, and is attached for information (see annex).
2. As requested by the Board at that session, information on events foreseen for the forthcoming Governing Council is also provided.
3. At the ninety-seventh session of the Executive Board, representatives were invited to note that the Fund's Management was in the process of redesigning the organization of the Governing Council to focus on a thematic discussion. The format of the thirty-third session of the Governing Council was changed accordingly, and the session proved to be more interactive, substantive and productive.
4. The thirty-fourth session of the Governing Council, to be held in February 2011, will follow the same format.
5. The United Nations proclaimed the year beginning on 12 August 2010 as the International Year of Youth. During this year, United Nations agencies are encouraged to organize events focusing on youth-related issues and the role of young people in development. Youth are also mentioned in the first Millennium Development Goal (MDG1), which aims to eradicate extreme poverty and hunger, and achieve full and productive employment for all, including women and young people. The opportunity to involve the present generation of youth in initiatives to develop the smallholder agricultural sector – by promoting smallholder farms as agribusinesses using new technologies and modern farming methods – is one we must not miss.
6. With this in mind, the following theme is proposed for an interactive plenary panel discussion: "Feeding future generations – Young rural people today, prosperous farmers tomorrow". Three major cross-cutting themes of importance to future generations are:
  - (a) Young people are the future leaders, entrepreneurs and farmers, and the challenge of developing vibrant rural centres and meeting future food security demand will rest on their shoulders.
  - (b) Specific rural youth-targeted policies and programmes are needed to create decent jobs for young people by modernizing the smallholder agriculture sector and offering alternatives to subsistence farming – in the form of high-revenue crops, marketing programmes, better positioning in value chains and contract farming.
  - (c) The empowering of young rural people to engage in small and medium-sized agribusinesses has enormous potential benefits in terms of feeding a growing world population, creating rural economic growth and providing opportunities for vulnerable women and men to use their talents to work their way out of poverty.
7. Against this backdrop, the panel aims to address some of the key issues affecting young rural people and smallholder agriculture and to discuss how IFAD can best contribute to improving the lives of rural youth. The specific focus on young rural people – and their potential to feed the world and act as agents for rural development – and on smallholder agriculture as a profitable agribusiness is something that IFAD, in cooperation with international, national and local partners, would like to move to the forefront of the development agenda.

8. In this regard, an interactive dialogue – featuring a panel of high-profile personalities who influence the development agenda – will be held during the plenary session of the Governing Council. A number of eminent people have been invited to take part in the discussion, and contacts have been made with their respective organizations and offices with a view to ensuring their participation. The panel will be moderated by an internationally renowned television journalist. The IFAD Secretariat will provide the Executive Board with more up-to-date information during the course of the 101st Board session. IFAD's membership will be kept informed of developments by means of regular updates on the IFAD website.
9. On the second day of the Governing Council, and in line with its overarching theme and focus, a number of parallel and consecutive side events will be organized in which interactive panels will discuss specific regional initiatives, approaches, challenges and opportunities. Domains of complementarities and synergies will be highlighted to provide guidance for future rural youth investment operations. The four regional events will emphasize best practices, lessons learned to promote investment in youth agribusiness, and vocational training and rural youth microenterprises.
10. At present the following side events are foreseen:
  - (a) Asia and the Pacific: "Opportunities and challenges of working with rural youth in Asia" (with a specific focus on engaging young people in rural development activities in Asia and the Pacific, and drawing on specific examples from IFAD-supported projects in the region);
  - (b) Sub-Saharan Africa: "Rural youth: Investing today for a better tomorrow" (with a specific focus on promoting smallholder agribusiness and vocational training of rural youth, in order to enhance generational livelihood security in the rural economies of sub-Saharan Africa);
  - (c) Latin America and the Caribbean: "Supporting rural youth microenterprises" (with a specific focus on broadening IFAD's vision and informing the innovative practices needed in future funding of rural youth microenterprises and support to agricultural practices in Latin America and the Caribbean and across the globe);
  - (d) Near East and North Africa, and Eastern Europe: "Rural youth: Investing today for a better tomorrow" (with a specific focus on promoting smallholder agribusiness and vocational training of rural youth, in order to enhance generational livelihood security in the rural economies of the regions).
11. IFAD divisional directors and senior staff will assist the groups and introduce the topics. National delegations will be free to attend the side events of their choice and, in order to maximize interaction, may wish to have different members attend different discussion groups. Accredited journalists will also be invited to attend the side events.
12. A provisional programme of events is provided, with a draft timetable for the proposed schedule of work. It encompasses the formal items as set out in the provisional agenda for consideration by the Governing Council, and the panel discussions and side events. The timetable seeks to allow sufficient time to handle the formal agenda, while maximizing opportunities for interactive dialogue on substantive issues related to the activities of the Fund. It is to be considered a work in progress and subject to change as confirmation of attendance is received.
13. The first session of the Consultation on the Ninth Replenishment of IFAD's Resources will take place on Monday, 21 February, and Member States participating in the Consultation based on the deliberations of the Governing Council will be receiving relevant information.
