Executive Board — 108th Session
Rome, 10-11 April 2013

For: Approval
Recommendation for approval

It is recommended that the Executive Board approve the proposed memorandum of understanding (MoU) between the Asian Development Bank and the International Fund for Agricultural Development upon such terms and conditions as shall be substantially in accordance with those presented herein and authorizes the President to sign the MoU provided in the annex.

Memorandum of understanding between the Asian Development Bank and the International Fund for Agricultural Development

I. Introduction and background
1. In direct response to a commitment made in the Report of the Consultation on the Eighth Replenishment of IFAD’s Resources, IFAD adopted a Partnership Strategy that confirms its recognition of the value of partnerships as a means to achieve its development objectives and the importance of providing a strategic framework for its partnership efforts. The goal of the IFAD Partnership Strategy is to enable more rural people to move out of poverty through the selective use and effective management of partnerships. Consequently, during discussions at the annual meeting of the Asian Development Bank (ADB) in May 2012, ADB and IFAD agreed that the cooperation agreement between the two institutions signed on 11 April 1978 should be renewed as it contained a number of redundancies and constrained the furthering of collaboration between the two institutions.

2. Previously, the two institutions collaborated under the 1978 cooperation agreement, in which IFAD entrusted the administration of loans/grants and the supervision of all the projects and programmes it financed to international institutions. As a cooperating institution, ADB has provided services under this agreement as project administrator to IFAD. This relationship has been ongoing and, at present, five IFAD-funded projects are under administration by ADB.1 These arrangements will continue until the completion date of these projects; they will not be affected by the termination of the 1978 cooperation agreement and the entry into force of the new memorandum of understanding (MoU). The Executive Board is requested to approve the proposed MoU provided that any substantive changes to the terms presented herein are then presented to the Board at a future session.

3. The proposed MoU reflects changes emanating from the 2006 decision of the Governing Council to amend the Agreement Establishing IFAD to permit IFAD to directly administer and supervise the projects and programmes that it finances, and thus updates the collaboration between the two institutions. It also expands and strengthens collaboration beyond project funding and implementation, to foster broader corporate collaboration and learning.

II. Purpose

4. The MoU is aimed at strengthening the effectiveness, impact, efficiency and sustainability of the development operations of each of the parties to the MoU. Through the collaboration envisaged under the MoU, ADB and IFAD consider it desirable and feasible to further their cooperation in all areas of common interest.

5. To achieve these objectives the two institutions intend to enhance collaboration in the following broad areas:

   (i) Information sharing on lessons learned about the challenges of implementing and monitoring the corporate policies, strategies, programmes and projects, operational procedures and practices of both parties;

   (ii) Facilitating food security, rural and agricultural development in member countries common to both parties through scaling-up of successful pilots;

   (iii) Collaborating on research, knowledge and policy dialogue on priority development topics and on achieving international development goals, with an emphasis on the relationship between these topics and goals and their impact on poverty reduction in member countries of both parties;

   (iv) Staff exchanges and secondments, subject to the mutual agreement of both parties;

   (v) Identifying of projects and programmes that qualify for financing by both parties in common areas of interest, including agriculture, rural development and food security and in accordance with the respective policies of each party;

   (vi) Coordinating the regional and country operations of the two parties and harmonizing their project design and implementation processes.

III. Strategic context

6. While IFAD’s collaboration with ADB has focused on the implementation of IFAD’s projects in the Asia and the Pacific region, the two institutions have agreed that their mutual complementarities offer far-reaching potential for greater collaboration and also greater reduction of rural poverty in the Asia and the Pacific region. Agricultural and rural development, central to IFAD’s mandate, will complement ADB’s mandated strategy to uplift the poor in the Asia and the Pacific region from poverty under ADB’s five strategic drivers of change: (i) private sector development and private sector operations; (ii) good governance and capacity development; (iii) gender equity; (iv) knowledge solutions; and (v) partnerships. With the goal of realizing this potential, a joint ADB-IFAD retreat was held in Manila in December 2012, during which a three-year collaborative Action Plan was agreed. In addition, tangible opportunities for operational collaboration were identified, such as through the Coastal Climate-Resilient Infrastructure Project cofinanced by ADB, IFAD and Kreditanstalt für Wiederaufbau (KfW) in Bangladesh.

7. Joining forces under the ADB-IFAD MoU constitutes a major step for the two organizations to jointly address hunger and build food security throughout the Asia and the Pacific region. With the Asia and the Pacific region still home to two thirds of the world’s hungry, the MoU foresees a partnership between IFAD and ADB that will foster scaling up of catalytic pilot programmes developed by the two institutions. The MoU will enable the two institutions to combine their complementary skills and perspectives in rural development to promote innovative financing mechanisms, build public-private partnerships and develop inclusive business models that bring benefits for local small farmers.

8. Both organizations aim to contribute to the commitments made by the G8, G20 and G77 to enhance and achieve food security globally and, in particular, in the Asia and the Pacific region. They also intend to increase aid effectiveness in alignment with the objectives of the Global Partnership for Effective Development Cooperation agreed at the Fourth High-level Forum on Aid Effectiveness in 2011. Finally, ADB and IFAD aim to enhance cooperation at headquarters and country level through knowledge management and development of staff.

IV. Implementation arrangements

9. Once yearly, a senior-level retreat will be organized between ADB and IFAD to review upstream collaboration opportunities under IFAD’s country strategic opportunities programmes and ADB’s country strategies and programmes; discuss implementation of the planned collaboration and initiatives in the areas of policy dialogue and knowledge management; and draw up plans for enhanced collaboration.

10. At the country and project level, the MoU will be supported by a framework cofinancing agreement in which implementation arrangements will be specified, with a menu of options including maintaining the possibility of benefiting from ADB’s administrative support, where efficient and desired.

11. Finally, the new MoU provides scope for raising IFAD’s visibility in the Asia and the Pacific region through greater participation in the ADB annual meetings and in other conferences organized in Asia by and together with ADB, and through joint knowledge management and staff development and exchanges to be agreed during retreats.
